

Specialists in Lorry Loaders

The use of inadequately trained operators is a major cause of accidents. Even if such accidents do not cause a fatality or an injury, they will almost certainly lead to costly legal action or damaged equipment. Quality operator training is a must; a properly trained lorry loader operator is also a more profitable one, providing higher levels of efficiency, less down time and a safer working environment. ALLMI training providers can supply the rigorous and all inclusive training necessary to achieve these benefits.

The ALLMI training programme covers novice, experienced and conversion training, full theoretical and practical instruction, and practical and written assessments

Every successful operator receives a certificate and identity card, as well as the ALLMI Operator's manual. ALLMI certification is valid for five years after which time refresher training will need to be undertaken. The course content includes:

- Legislation
- Pre-operational checks
- Maintenance
- Lifting attachments
- Siting of the lorry loader
- Lorry loader operation
- Loader safety systems
- Stowing for travel

Slinger / Signaller Training

As a natural extension to its role as a provider of quality lorry loader training, ALLMI also offers training for slinging and signalling. Many employers assume that lorry loader training also covers the areas of slinging and signalling, but in order to be proficient, an operator should attend a separate course. The ALLMI Slinger / Signaller programme is ideal for lorry loader operators, but its content is so comprehensive that the skills learned can be used with any other type of lifting equipment.

ALLMI is part of the CPCS Management Committee. For more information on ALLMI's relationship with CPCS, please contact ALLMI.

Supported by the Manufacturers

The Association of Lorry Loader Manufacturers and Importers (ALLMI) is the UK's only trade association devoted exclusively to advancing safety and standards in the lorry loader industry. A key part of ALLMI's service to the industry is the supply of training for lorry loader operators and instructors.

ALLMI specialises in lorry loader training and because of this it delivers the highest set of training standards in the UK within this specialist area. ALLMI is supported by the major loader crane manufacturers and importers, and provides the only lorry loader programme in the UK to have received the Health and Safety Executive's (HSE) 'Working in Partnership' logo and commendation (see below). Representatives from the manufacturers and the HSE sit on the ALLMI Training Standards Committee which develops and maintains the scheme.

"The Health and Safety Executive (HSE) commends the use of this Training Programme to those who have duties under the Health and Safety at Work Act 1974. This programme was drawn up with the participation of a HSE representative and will be referred to in relevant HSE publications."

Commended by the HSE

ALLMI has over 150 accredited instructors throughout the UK and Ireland. In addition to having the necessary qualifications and experience, all instructors must attend and pass the ALLMI Instructor course and all are audited on an annual basis to ensure a high standard is achieved across the training provider network. Every accredited instructor is issued with the ALLMI Instructor's manual and a range of high quality training aids to ensure the effective delivery of the course. Instructors also have access to the ALLMI Instructor Information lines, which provide them with a direct link to the UK's manufacturers and importers, allowing them to continually keep their product knowledge up to date.

In addition to the training services detailed overleaf, ALLMI also provides:
